supports the proposed automatic reduction in the fund assessments paid by grain dealers when their portion of the fund exceeds the statutory maximum of $6 million. We also support the reduction in assessments paid by milk contractors by 20 percent to better reflect fairness in what the sector should be paying into the fund. The Madison hearing was the final of two hearings on the proposed changes to ATCP 99, 100 and 101. The deadline for written comments on the rule is Aug. 2. Written comments should be sent to David Woldseth at the Division of Trade and Consumer Protection, DATCP, P.O. Box 8911, Madison, WI. 53708-8911. Comments may also be emailed to DavidA.Woldseth@wisconsin.gov.

Senate Republican budget proposal contains most of rev/ex recommendations

Among the provisions in the budget proposal released by Senate Republicans on July 18 are several of interest to Cooperative Network's members. They are the following:

- Includes most of the RevEx recommendations that are in Governor Walker's budget proposal that had not yet been acted upon by the Joint Finance Committee, and have received Cooperative Network's support. However, several modifications to the budget language are included in the Senate GOP version. The modifications are:
 - Establish a pesticide product registration fee of $500 per product – an increase of $20 from what is in the budget bill as submitted. In addition, language is clarified to specify that pesticide product registrations shall be paid by companies that sell or distribute pesticides in Wisconsin, which is a DATCP recommendation.
 - Specify that commercial feed inspection fees shall be paid by the first person to sell or distribute commercial feed in Wisconsin, or to a person in Wisconsin. This was a DATCP recommendation.
 - Establish surcharge reduction thresholds at Agricultural Chemical Cleanup Program (ACCP) fund balances of $2.5 million and $1.25 million (the bill uses $1.5 million and $750,000 thresholds). Also, provide that DATCP may request transfers from the Agrichemical Management (ACM) fund to the ACCP through a 14-day Joint Finance Committee passive review process.
 - Restore the $7,500 deductible for pesticide license holders and larger businesses. (The budget bill incorrectly changed that to $3,000.)
 - Re-estimate reimbursements of agricultural chemical cleanups at $900,000 annually, a decrease from the adjusted base of $1.5. That lower amount reflects DATCP projections for program activity beginning in the 2017-19 biennium.
- Includes the Joint Finance Committee's approved budget provision to restore the stray voltage program and associated statutory authorities in DATCP and the Public Service Commission.
- Provides an additional $100,000 annually from the Agrichemical Management segregated (SEG) revenue account for administration of the livestock premises registration program, in addition to the currently provided $250,000 general purpose revenue (GPR) annually.
- Provide an additional $25,000 GPR annually for aids to county and district fairs. DATCP has base funding of $406,400 GPR each year for fair aids. Awards are capped at $10,000 per fair, subject to further proration if total eligible reimbursements exceed the appropriated amount.

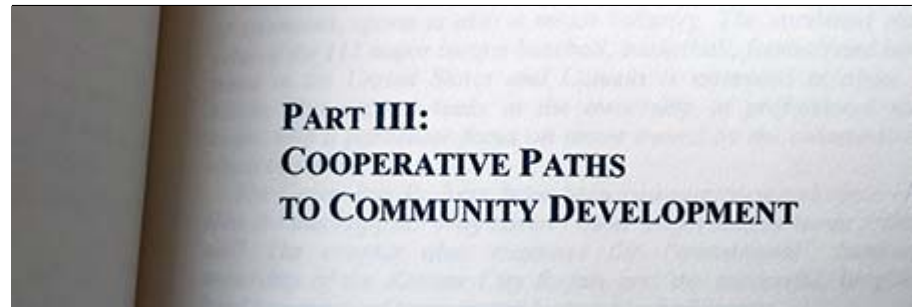

- Increase the maximum grant under the Producer-Led Watershed Protection Grant program from $20,000 to $40,000 and continue to fund the program with up to $250,000 nonpoint SEG each fiscal year instead of GPR as the budget bill would provide.

State Budget update

Wisconsin's 2017-19 State Budget is 24 days overdue. Last week the Senate Republican's announced their budget in a press conference attended by Cooperative Network. Senate Majority Leader Scott Fitzgerald (R – Juneau) acknowledged that the Senate proposal is a working document and that changes could be made before final passage. Fitzgerald also thinks that the Senate Budget meets Governor Walker's goal of funding k-12 education, holding the line on property taxes, and insuring sound investments in transportation without raising taxes.

According to the non-partisan Legislative Fiscal Bureau, the Senate proposal includes $712 million in bonding for transportation which is more than Governor Walker and the Assembly have proposed. The level of bonding is a point of contention between the Senate and the Assembly.

On July 20, Governor Walker proposed to use $200 million that he had planned to use for income tax cuts to go towards transportation funding. Assembly Republicans have indicated their support for Walker's plan while the Senate Republicans are still reviewing. The Senate and the Assembly seem to agree to keep the Governor's $600 million increase in K-12 Education funding.

Minnesota

Judge rules against Gov. Dayton's line-item veto of legislative branch funding

A Ramsey County judge ruled last week that Gov. Mark Dayton's line-item veto of funding for the legislative branch was unconstitutional. In his ruling, Judge John Guthman ruled: "The court holds that the governor used his line-item veto authority to gain a repeal or modification of unrelated policy legislation by effectively eliminating a co-equal branch of government. Therefore, the unique and limited circumstances of this case, the governor's line-item veto of the legislature's appropriations offended the Separation of Powers clause of the Minnesota Constitution. They are null and void." After the ruling was rendered, the governor indicated that he will appeal the decision to the Minnesota Supreme Court and that the ruling was a preliminary step in the case's judicial process.

House Speaker Kurt Daudt (R – Crown) stated his disappointment that the governor refuses to accept the court's opinion. Senate Majority Leader Paul Gazelka (R – Nisswa) commented that the governor should accept the verdict and allow the people of Minnesota to move on, instead of continuing to waste taxpayer dollars on expensive litigation. Dayton has contended that his veto was legal and was done to bring legislators back to the bargaining table to discuss fiscal and policy differences that he feels could jeopardize Minnesota's future.

MPCA plans amendments to water quality fee rules

The Minnesota Pollution Control Agency (MPCA) recently announced that they are planning amendments to water quality fees that may increase permit application, annual and additional fees. MPCA contends the amendments will adjust fees to reflect fairer and more equitable distribution of permit costs among permittees. The MPCA will consider changes to include an inflation factor to enable fees to reflect increasing costs as well as a schedule for phasing in fee changes. Fees affected by the proposed amendments include feedlot permits, environmental review, municipal and industrial wastewater permits, non-contract cooling water permits, stormwater permits, septic systems, variances and laboratory certification. A stakeholder video conference on the rulemaking will be held this afternoon from 2-4 p.m. and again from 6-8 p.m., at the MPCA St. Paul office and at regional offices in Brainerd, Detroit Lakes, Duluth, Mankato, Marshall, Rochester and Willmar. The purpose of the meeting is to share information about the rulemaking so that stakeholders are able to provide verbal input and written comments. The deadline for comments is Aug. 14, 2017 to the Office of Administration hearings Rulemaking e-Comments webpage.
